

Photos of Boundary Springs Hike
Rogue River National Forest & Crater Lake National Park

September 3, 2019

The hike begins on the Upper Rogue River Trail from the Mt. Mazama Viewpoint parking area.

For a half mile, one winds through burned, ghost forest to the junction with the Boundary Springs Trail.

At 0.9 miles, the trail crosses from the east to west bank of the Rogue River at the Road 760 crossing.

For the next mile, the trail follows the high bluff along the river, 50'-150' above the rushing stream.

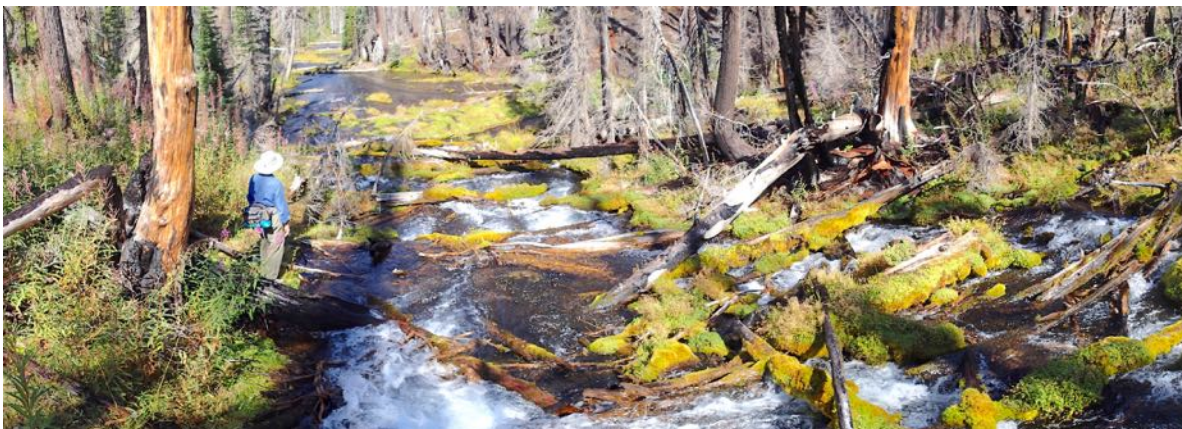

At 2.0 miles, the trail descends into the headwaters through a lush meadow fed by the first springs.

Just upriver, where the gradient is low, old logs covered with yellow monkeyflower jam the stream.

In sections with a steeper gradient, one finds cataracts and waterfalls. Look for water ouzels in the pools.

At 2.5 miles, one arrives at Boundary Springs, gushing out of the hillside across moss-covered rocks.